

BOARDS OF EDUCATION DECIDE NOT TO BUILD JOINT HIGH SCHOOL

City Members Are Afraid Of Complications—County Board To Ask $7,000 From Fiscal Court For Their Schools.

At a joint meeting of the city and county Boards of Education held Saturday morning, it was definitely decided that the city and county should not unite in building a High School as required by the new school law.

Mr. N. K. Foster and Mr. J. N. Hisle, representing the city Board, were present. Mr. Foster stated that at a call meeting of the city Board held about ten days ago, with six members in attendance, the proposition was put up to them and the decision that the city Board should not unite with the county Board was unanimous.

Each County Must Build.

When the so-much-talked-about new school law was enacted some time ago, it required that each county should build a High School where the advanced grades could be taught such as are taught in the city High Schools so that the country children might have the same advanced educational facilities that the city children do.

Hisle, representing the city Board, conceived the idea of uniting with the county Board in this movement and asked for a meeting with them, which was held in February, at which the matter was thoroughly discussed and a committee was appointed to investigate the legal end of it which they did and reported back at a meeting that was held about three weeks ago.

Obstacles in Way.

The report contained several obstacles in the way of the two Boards uniting in building the school that could not be gotten around and which would have ultimately caused dissatisfaction in the way the school would have to have been conducted and after a thorough discussion of the matter it was decided best to let the county build the school alone.

County Board Meets.

This was also the regular meeting day for the county Board which was held after the joint meeting and much business was transacted. The one most important matter of business was transacted. The one most important matter of business before the county Board was hearing the reports from the members who had made a canvass of the needs of the school and deciding on the amount that they would ask the Fiscal Court to appropriate.

The report of the committeemen showed that some of the schools were in bad repair and needed attention. For the other expenses that will come up during the year and for two new school houses that will probably be erected during the year, $7,000 was the amount agreed upon to ask from the Fiscal Court for these purposes.

Aside from the transaction, very little, except routine business, was transacted.

The county Board took no steps towards doing anything regarding the building of the High School since it was decided definitely that they should go it alone and when this will be done, is not known yet.

GOOD CROWD AT FIRST GAME

Entire Squad at Lexington Finished First Week's Training With Few Stiff Muscles.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 20.—An excellent crowd witnessed the first game of the season between the vets and Colts—Ganzell's squad this afternoon. Ganzell was unable to be in the line up on account of a slight attack of la grippe, however, he was on the grounds and umpired the contest.

The day was an ideal one for the game. All the squad finished the first week's training in good shape. The worst effects of the first week's work were a few stiff muscles. Ganzell is well pleased with Lexington as a training grounds and said today that he would probably come back here next year.

HON CURTIS F. BURNAM DEAD

One of Most Distinguished of Kentucky's Sons Passes to His Long Rest.

RICHMOND, Ky., March 20.—Hon. Curtis Field Burnam, one of the oldest and most prominent public men in Kentucky, died at his home, "Burnamwood," in this city Thursday midnight, aged 89. He had been ill since February, and on account of his advanced age his death was not unexpected by his family and friends. He retained consciousness up to within a few hours of the end.

As an instance of his remarkable physical and mental vigor, notwithstanding his more than four score years, he attended to his law practice and refused to retire from active life, until he was taken ill a few weeks ago.

The Closing Hours.

The closing hours of the venerable man were consoled by the presence of his children and grandchildren, who have been in constant attendance at his bedside.

His surviving children are Judge A. R. Burnam, formerly Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, and present Republican National Committeeman from Kentucky; Hon. E. Tatt Burnam, former State Insurance Commissioner; Robert R. Burnam, cashier of the Farmers' National Bank; T. S. Burnam, the wealthy distiller; Mrs. Waller Bennett and Miss Lucia Burnam, an unmarried daughter, all of this city.

Part of History of State.

Major Burnam's public career is part of the history of Kentucky and the nation. He was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury under President Grant's administration and since then has been repeatedly honored by the people of his native State. He represented Madison county several times in the State Legislature and later was elected to the State Senate. He was also a member of the State Constitutional Convention of 1890. He was strongly indorsed for Justice of Supreme Court, under President Hayes' administration, but the appointment went to Judge John M. Harlan.

Friend of Lincoln.

Major Burnam was a life-long Republican and a personal friend of President Abraham Lincoln. He was a graduate of Yale and belonged to the same class as that of President Taft's father. He was an able lawyer, a conscientious and faithful public official, a wise and prudent statesman, a ripe scholar, a cultured Kentucky gentleman of the old school, and a citizen whose public and private life was an honor to his State. The news of his death will be heard with regret all over Kentucky.

Major Burnam was created a Knight Templar in Webb Commandery, No. 2 of this city, May 18, 1848. When the Richmond Commandery was organized he transferred his membership there. He was the oldest Knight Templar in Kentucky.

He will be buried in Richmond Sunday at 2:30 p. m. and Webb Commandery will attend in a body.

Mrs. Burnam died upward of two years ago, the first death in the family.

WINTER DIES TODAY.

According to the calendar, spring is to be officially ushered in tomorrow. The days and nights are approximately of the same length now, March 22, being known as the vernal equinox. The days will continue to lengthen until June 22nd, the summer solstice.

attempted to secure him, but he finally went with the Metropolitan, where he has since been. His ability is shown by the splendid way in which he has handled the roles of Caruso when the noted tenor was indisposed. Next year he will be the leading tenor at Covent Garden, London.

The record Martin has made is sufficient to insure a warm welcome for him from Kentuckians and his neighbors from adjoining States, but particularly from Hopkinsville and the Pennyrite.

EDWARD PAYSON WESTON, VETERAN WHO UNDERTAKES 4,000 MILE WALK.

Edward Payson Weston, the pedestrian whose feats at long distance walking have made him famous, celebrated his seventy-first birthday by starting to walk from New York to the Pacific coast. Weston believes he can cover the distance in 100 days. His walk from Portland, Me., to Chicago two years ago attracted the attention of the whole world, as the veteran clipped several hours off his record made over the same route forty years before.

MAY INSTALL THREE MORE EXCHANGES

East Tennessee Telephone Company Planning To Extend Business in the County.

Plans are now under consideration by the East Tennessee Telephone Company to install three more exchanges in the county. The company already has one at Wades Mill and the three new ones are to be located at Ford, Becknerville and Pilot View. Solicitors are now at work at these places and if the necessary amount of business can be secured work on installing the exchanges will begin at once.

Mr. Bridwell, the local manager, says that the work of the solicitors so far has been very flattering and he thinks the proposition will be a go. The exchanges are being installed to enable the company to cover the county more thoroughly.

Larrimer Secures 22 Points And Wins The Gold Medal—Combs Is A Close Second With 20 Points.

A very interesting and hotly contested indoor track meet was held Friday night in the Auditorium. Prof. Moore, of the college, conducted the meet and it is due to him that it was entirely successful and that it proved to be a rare treat to lovers of sport.

All of the events were made in good time or, as in the case of the jumps, fair records stood at the close. The 50-yard dash brought out the largest field and was very close. The pole vault was heartily appreciated by the audience as was also the high dive.

OPEN SESSION OF TAM O'SHANTER SOCIETY

Crowded House Greet The Effort of the Young People Friday Night.

The open session of the Tam O'Shanter Literary Society held in the chapel of the Hickman street building Friday evening was greeted with a crowded house. The program throughout was excellently rendered. After the opening chorus by the society, came the debate, subject, "Should the United States Annex Cuba?" Grant Hammond represented the affirmative and Wheeler Haggard, the negative. Each young man ably presented his side of the question. After deliberation the judges—Rev. C. E. Crafton and Messrs. W. A. Adams and B. F. Herriott by a vote of two to one, decided in favor of the affirmative.

Miss Carrie Belle McPherson was greatly praised for the manner in which she rendered the "Lost Ship." Every feature was excellent, but space forbids special mention of each in detail. This was the last open session of the term.

HOT ON TRAIL OF KIDNAPERS

Cleveland Police Think They Have Right Man—Said to Have Confessed.

Sharon, Pa., March 20.—Frank H. Buhl, the millionaire uncle of William Whitla, the eight-year-old son of Attorney James P. Whitla of this city, who was kidnaped from school and taken away by his abductor or abductors in a buggy, left for Cleveland. It has been reported from that city that two men and a boy answering the description of the kidnapers and their victim have been seen there, consequently the supposition is that Mr. Buhl has received word which makes him believe his nephew is in Cleveland or that vicinity.

Mr. Whitla, the father of the missing boy, was away from his office for a time, and returned despatched with mud, as if he had been driving over country roads. He said nothing had been learned regarding the boy or his captors. Mr. Shilling, who is associated with Mr. Whitla in the search for the latter's son, gave out a statement with a request from the bereaved father that the papers use it in full. The statement follows:

"Nothing new has developed. The rig in which the men carried the boy away was found in front of a livery stable in Warren, O. Where the party left the buggy is not known, as no one saw them in it at this point. The buggy contained a new cap, which had apparently not been worn. It was not the cap of young Whitla, as first reported. The police in the near cities and towns were promptly set to work, yet Mr. Whitla is not pushing matters vigorously, his great wish being to get his boy back. He is hoping that the parties having the boy in custody will at once open negotiations for his speedy return."

The lawyer and his close friends and assistants in the kidnaping investigation refuse to give out for publication the letter received from the kidnapers. It is said, however, that the letter contained some striking sentences in addition to those made public. One alleged remark is, "Our perceptive abilities are as keen as yours and we have brains to help us." It threatened instant death to the boy should the letter be made public or shown to detectives, according to reports here.

CONFERENCE MAY BE HELD AT FRANKFORT

Committee of Governors to Meet in September to Decide on Meeting Place.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 20.—Kentucky stands an excellent chance to get the next meeting of the Conference of Governors of all the States, and Frankfort has already made the first move toward landing the meeting for this year. Opposition is expected from Louisville, which will probably try to secure the meeting, but Frankfort, being the first in the field with an invitation to the Governors to meet here, will stand the best chance. Then, too, Frankfort has a new Capitol, in which the meetings could be held, as an extra inducement to get the conference here.

The time and place for the meeting of the Governors will be selected by a committee of five Governors. Two of these—Governor Swanson, of Virginia, and Governor Wilson, of Kentucky, will select three other Governors to make up the full committee. The other three members of the committee are to be named by Governor Willson and Governor Swanson in a few days. In a short time thereafter a meeting of the five Governors will be called, probably to be held in Frankfort, when the time and place for the next meeting will be decided upon.

A REAL TARIFF BILL.

Chairman Payne's tariff bill shows evidence of the cross-purposes of contending interests. In these respects it is not likely to be improved in the turmoil of a House debate, nor in the deliberations of the Aldrich committee in the Senate. Yet as it stands it does upon the whole fulfill the party pledge of a genuine revision downward in the interest of the Government and the consumer.

Mr. Payne will not find general agreement with his definition of coconuts, spices and chicory-root as "luxuries," or acquiescence in the need of raising the tariff, for protective reasons, on coal-tar dyes; on peas, figs, lemons and pineapples; on machine-knit stockings; on gloves, envelopes, coated papers and wall-paper. He will not easily explain why he reduces the tariff on gypsum but increases that on cement made of gypsum.

But there are great compensations in free iron ore, free hides and free soft coal from reciprocating countries; in the reduction of the borax and tinplate rates, which have been a fiscal scandal; in the cutting in half of the rate on railway bars and the 40 per cent cut on structural girders and cotton-ties; in free wood pulp and a reduction of from $6 to $2 a ton on the cheaper grades of print paper; in the admission of lace-making machinery free until July 1, 1911, and in limited reciprocal free trade with the Philippines. The free admission of objects of art twenty years old is a concession of much educational value.

Mr. Payne announces a return to the principle of reciprocity in providing for maximum rates. Here is to be no repetition of the farce of sending Mr. Kasson abroad to negotiate trade treaties for the Senate to pigeon-hole; the reciprocity feature is to be enforced by the Executive under guidance of court decisions.

The patent clause of the bill is suggested by the new English law designed to secure the home manufacture of articles protected by letters patent.

An admirable feature is the re-imposition of the Federal inheritance tax. This impost is ideal. It should be made progressive; and a constitutional graduated Federal income tax should be added.

The framers of a comprehensive fiscal measure must always consider three points—the political forces affecting its passage; its revenue promise; its effect upon the cost of living.

Free cotton-seed oil has an ugly sound in the South, but is hardly a menace to a region producing three-fourths of the world supply. Free hides will be fought in grazing States, but supported by shoe men and harness-makers. The higher duties proposed for fruit will please California and Florida. Perhaps no great opposition may be looked for from the steel men. They realize that, as Mr. Carnegie told them at the tariff hearing, the "jig is up." And they are still well protected in the Payne project. A reduction of $3.50 a ton on railroad bars and proportionally on other specialties, with the boon of free raw material, does not give a trust making $15 a ton profit on all its product an excuse for reducing wages.

What revenue the bill may produce neither Mr. Payne nor any other man may say. But he errs in taking the extravagant boom year 1905-6 as a "normal" one upon which to base his predictions of receipts; and his tariff scheme is not, except in a few particulars, framed upon a revenue basis. A further advance in Government expenditure must next year be provided for. More money than this bill will yield may still be needed. It can be procured through income and inheritance taxation.

From the standpoint of the householder and consumer the tariff is of course disappointing.

Shoes may be cheaper, gloves dearer. Lumber and building stone and fence posts may cost less, but fruit more. No substantial relief will be found in a reduction of half a cent a pound on fresh meat, or two cents on a carving knife, or a trifle on threads, carpets and window glass, or four one-hundredths of a cent on sugar. Tea is taxed, but not coffee. The reductions on shirts, collars and cuffs and on woolen goods are more substantial, but the rates are still high.

As the tremendous tax upon the people involved in the protective tariff has been indirect, and not easily calculable by the individual consumer, so will be the benefit resulting to him from the proposed reductions. Yet benefit there will be—unless the bill is jobbed in the Senate, or in its final shaping in conference, or the maximum-rate provision is juggled into a means of sly exaction. The rate cannot be so materially reduced upon steel products, lumber, stone and other great staple commodities without helping the consumer, though he may not know just where and how.

SIGNS ARE FAVORABLE

But Retail Trade Lacks Buoyancy of Settled Conditions.

New York, March 20.—R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review of trade says: Most of the tests by which trade activity is measured make favorable records. Reports from the principal cities are of a generally hopeful character, but the fact remains that there is still lacking that buoyancy and readiness to make long commitments ahead, which are features of a trade situation entirely free from unsettling uncertainties.

The week has witnessed the introduction of a tariff bill making large cuts in duties on iron and steel and other products, but apparently less is apprehended from this than from a possible failure of congress to heed the words of President Taft and get through with the tariff business as soon as possible. The coal trade is confronted with a labor crisis.

PREMIER CLEMENCEAU WINS

Chamber of Deputies Sustains Government in Strike.

Paris, March 20.—Premier Clemenceau and his colleagues faced the strike interpellations in the chamber of deputies with a determination to secure endorsement of the government's position or retire from office. They won, for the chamber rejected a resolution providing for a commission to investigate the causes of the strike by a vote of 364 to 185.

From the very outset it was apparent that the chamber was with the government, as the attack of the opposition lacked both vim and cohesiveness. The Socialists centered their assaults upon M. Simeyan, under-secretary of posts and telegraphs, but they also reproached Premier Clemenceau with having shifted his position since he had "reached the other side of the barricade."

M. Simeyan's defense consisted of a general denial of the charges of favoritism, which he declared had been brought by the employees because he had refused to accept their recommendations. Tumult followed when the under-secretary declared that the principal leaders of the strike had been endorsed by from 10 to 15 members of the chamber of deputies.

"Name them!" shouted the members of the Right, in high glee. "Name them," repeated the Right, but when M. Simeyan turned in that direction and shouted that the endorsers came from the Right as well as from the Left, there was no further insistence that names be mentioned.

Two Killed in Deluge.

Parkersburg, W. Va., March 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Waggle are dead and a number of persons injured, three probably fatally, as the result of the bursting of two water tanks at the city waterworks. An immense stream of water rushed down Prospect hill, sweeping everything before it, and completely wrecking 10 houses and damaging 40 others. It is supposed the tanks were dynamited.

The medical department was considerably damaged and there was loss of much expensive apparatus as a result of the explosion in the chemical laboratory.

MONTANA.

"Montana," which appears at the opera house Saturday night, is a typical Western play and abounds in thrilling situations and inspiring climaxes. It is realistic of the plains, and it resounds with the deep voices of rough, venturesome men. The plot is cleverly conceived and as portrayed by Mr. Carey's well selected cast should be a pleasing performance. It might be well to add Mr. Carey has had an entire new production built for the present season with new and powerful electrical effects introduced.

Seventy-five per cent of the so-called comedies are failures because of their absolute absurdity and vapid attempts to create a laugh. "Lena Rivers" has become notable through its perfectly legitimate comedy situations, which never fail to please even the most blasé auditor, hence they have an opportunity of judging its unqualified success with its splendid audiences everywhere. Some Progress in That Direction May Be Made!

"Enough" advertising would give your business an immediate "jump"—give it an impulse forward which nothing could check.

If, therefore, you COULD advertise "enough," your prosperity-problem would be quickly solved.

What you CAN DO NOW is to reach out in the direction of adequacy in your advertising—"sacrifice" other things, in your desire to keep pace with the best and the biggest advertisers in your line.

If you make "other things" pay for the advertising up to the point of partial adequacy, after that the advertising will pay for the other things—for ALL of the other things.

SHUT DOWN EXPECTED

Anthracite Mines Work Full Time in Anticipation of Trouble.

Philadelphia, March 20.—No word has yet come from the anthracite coal mining companies regarding the annual reduction of 50 cents a ton in the domestic sizes of coal, which for a number of years had been going into effect on April 1. Coal dealers and consumers are anxiously waiting for an announcement, but none is expected until after the convention of miners at Scranton next week.

Every colliery in the hard coal fields is working full time, and will continue to do so up to the end of the month. The rumors that the mining companies will shut down for an indefinite period pending a settlement of the labor troubles can not be officially confirmed, but reports from several important sections of the coal region tend to support such rumors.

The Struggle of the Rich.
I could have dropped out some time ago, but I stayed in for the satisfaction I derived.—E. H. Harriman.

That's what's the matter with men of wealth—

It isn't at all that they need The money for which they will peril their souls;

It is simply ambition's greed. They want to be part of the magnate push. And to mix in a row to see Which one of the captains shall gain control.

Of the stuff that spells Victory. It is only to win a corporate war That they stay in the game and play,

While a helpless and suffering world looks on With the blood of the bill to pay.

Their isn't the struggle that millions put up To secure their daily bread,

And give of their lives that others may live;

It is power they're after instead. For that they will hazard the best that they have,

Their health and their peace of mind; Their consciences go with the rest as well,

For the pleasure they think they find. It is power they're after—not power of right,

That may count for a glory crown; It is merely the power to keep themselves up

Keeping the other man down. If they struggled for wealth for the good they could do

With abundance of golden might, Their motives no man would dare to condemn

And the world would applaud the fight. Nobody denies they are giants of strength,

And each has a right to his. As long as he hews to the line of the law,

But, God, what a shame it is! —W. J. Lampton.

Miss Abner Edwards entertained in a most delightful way the Country Club, on St. Patrick's Day.

tive with its decorations of shamrocks and other emblems of the occasion.

oughly enjoyed, the winners being Miss Lawrence Osborne and Mr. B. D. Witt.

One of the most amusing features of the evening was a paper, "The Tanner's Store," edited and

BASEBALL SEASON TO OPEN AT LEXINGTON

Colts and Hustlers Are To Play at League Park Saturday Afternoon.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 20.—With the cry of "Play Ball" at the Blue Grass League park this afternoon, spring will be officially inaugurated into its own in Lexington, and the fans will be heard raving from this time until late in the fall on the merits of this or that player. To the lovers of base ball there is no more welcome sound than the one which is used by the official in charge of the game to start all contests and a large crowd is expected this afternoon when the contest between the "Hustlers" and the "Colts" comes off.

Six Pitchers To Be Used.

The game this afternoon will be called at 2:30 and in order to insure a fast game, three pitchers will be used by each team. This will eliminate the possibility of any pitcher weakening under the strain and prevent the scoring of many runs in one inning. Ganzel said last night that he expected to see a hard fought contest as both sides in his estimation will be evenly matched.

AN UNIQUE CHECK.

Mr. J. Newt Renaker is a good real estate man but when it comes to trading cows with Mr. Dallas Powell, he is not so much. He engineered one such trade this week giving ten dollars to boot. He delivered a cow to Mr. Powell, but the one from Mr. Powell never reached him. The following written on the check by which he paid the boot money will explain the untimely demise of one cow:

"For difference in cow swap. The cow I get, I have not got. She is somewhere in this wide universe. Later the cow I was to get found near L. & N. trestle, south of Winchester, quietly reposing, never more to be disturbed, and buried by section boss, Irvine. Peace to her ashes."

You Cannot Answer These Questions!

1—Why do you continue bathing your knees and elbows one a. a. time, when you can stretch out in a full bath tempered to suit you, and can do so every morning if you wish?

2—Why pump and carry water for your kitchen and laundry work when you can have it at hand for the turning of a faucet?

3—Why take chances on drinking germ-filled cistern water when you can get it from a large reservoir filtered through the best filter plant South of the Ohio River?

4—Why have a dry, dismal-looking yard when you can have it filled with green grass and blooming flowers, and can at the same time get rid of the dust in the street?

5—Why suffer other inconveniences when you can have everything for the comfort and health of your family right in the house?

6—Is it not true that the answer is not "lack of money," but lack of economy and enterprise and indifference to getting the most out of life?

"Oh, not for all the world!" she protested.

"But you'll come and meet the lieutenant-governor?"

"Up there?" she said, incredulously, pointing to the dais under the flags.

"Why, yes," Vernon answered, "why not? It's where all the eminent lawyers who come down here to lobby sit."

She looked up at the desk behind which the lieutenant-governor sat, swinging gently in his swivel chair, while the secretary read senate bills on third reading. There was a reluctance in her eyes, but when she caught Vernon's smile, she gathered her skirts and said:

"Well, if I must."

CHAPTER IV.

While Miss Greene sat chatting with the lieutenant-governor, who gladly neglected the duties of his high office, Vernon went out into the rotunda, lighted a cigarette, glanced over the pamphlets, and tried to arrange the heads of his speech in his mind.

At the thought of the speech, Vernon grew cold and limp with nervousness. His hands were clammy, his knees trembled, his mouth became dry and parched, and the cigarette he had lighted imparted all at once an evil taste. Yet he smoked on, and as he wandered around the rotunda, men from both houses, passing to and fro, greeted him, but they seemed to him to be strange new creatures flitting by in a dream. If he was conscious of them at all it was only as of evil beings, all on a common happy plane, fortunate ones who did not have to make a speech within the hour. He went over to the state library, thinking that its quiet would soothe, but when he stood among the tall stacks of books he suddenly remembered that he must not smoke in those precincts; and so he turned out into the rotunda again, for he must smoke. He walked round and round the rotunda, pausing at times to lean over the brass railing and look far down to the main floor where the red light glowed at the clear stand; he sauntered back into the dim and undisturbed corridors, his mind racing over all the things he might say.

Once or twice he glanced into the pamphlets Miss Greene had given him, but he could not fix his mind on them; their types danced meaninglessly before his eyes. He was angry with himself for this nervousness. Why must it assail him now, just when he wished to be at his best? He had spoken before, a hundred times; he knew his audience, and he had the proper contempt for his colleagues. He had never, to be sure, made a set speech in that presence; seldom did any one do that; the speeches were usually short and impromptu, and there was no time for anticipation to generate nervous dread. And yet his mind seemed to be extraordinarily clear just then; it seemed to be able to comprehend all realms of thought at once.

But it was not so much the speech he thought of, as the effect of the speech; already he could see the newspapers and the big headlines they would display on their first pages the next morning; he could see his mother reading them at breakfast, and then he could see Amelia reading them. How her dark eyes would widen, her cheeks flush pink! She would raise her hand and put back her hair with that pretty mannerism of hers; then impulsively resting her arms on the table before her, she would eagerly read the long columns through, while her mother reminded her that her breakfast was getting cold. How proud she would be of him! She would never chide him again; she would see that at last he had found himself.

The Eltons, too, would read, and his absence from their dinner would react on them impressively. And Maria Greene—but a confusion arose—Maria Greene! He had not thought of Amelia all the morning until that very instant; Amelia's letter lay still unopened on his desk back there in the senate chamber. Maria Greene! She would hear, she would color as she looked at him, and her eyes would glow; he could feel the warm pressure of the hand she would give him in congratulation.

And it was this handsome young woman's presence in the chamber that gave rise to all this nervousness. He was sure that he would not have been nervous if Amelia were to be there. She had never heard him speak in public, though he had often pressed her to do so; somehow the places where he spoke were never those to which it would be proper for her to go. She would wish she had heard this speech, for in 24 hours it would be the one topic of conversation throughout the state; his picture would be in the newspapers—"The brilliant young Chicago lawyer who electrified the Illinois senate with his passionate oratory and passed the woman-suffrage measure." It would be an event to mark the beginning of a new era—But his imaginings were broken, his name was spoken; he turned and saw Miss Greene.

"Come," she said, "it's up! Hurry!" She was excited and her cheeks glowed. His teeth began to chatter. He followed her quick steps in the direction of the chamber.

"But," he stammered, "I—I didn't know—I haven't even arranged for recognition."

"Oh, I'll fixed all that!" the woman said. "The lieutenant-governor promised me." She was holding her rustling skirts and almost running.

CHAPTER V.

As they entered the senate chamber, Vernon heard the lieutenant-governor say: "And the question is: Shall the resolution be adopted? Those in favor will vote 'aye,' those opposed will vote 'no,' when their names are called; and the secretary will call the 'aye.'"

"Mr. President!" Vernon shouted. There was no time now to retreat; he had launched himself on the sea of glory. A dozen other senators were on their feet, likewise demanding recognition.

"The senator from Cook," said the lieutenant-governor.

Vernon stood by his desk, arranging complacently the documents. Miss Greene had given him. Once or twice he cleared his throat and wiped his lips with his handkerchief. The other senators subsided into their seats, and, seeing that they themselves were not then to be permitted to speak, and like all speakers, not caring to listen to the speeches of others, they turned philosophically to the little diversions with which they whiled away the hours of the session—writing letters, reading newspapers, smoking. Vernon glanced around. Maria Greene was sitting precariously on the edge of a divan. Her face was white and drawn. She gave a quick nod, and a smile just touched her fixed lips. And then Vernon began. He spoke slowly and with vast deliberation; his voice was very low. He outlined his subject with exquisite pains, detail by detail, making it clear just what propositions he would advance. His manner was that of the lawyer in an appellate court, making a masterly and purely legal argument; when it was done, the senate, if it had paid attention—though it seldom did pay attention—would know all about the question of woman-suffrage.

In his deliberation, Vernon glanced now and then at Maria Greene. Her eyes were sparkling with intelligent interest. As if to choose the lowest point possible from which to trace the rise and progress of legislation favorable to women, Vernon would call the attention of the senate first to the decision of the Illinois supreme court in Re Bradwell, 55 Ill. 525. That was away back in 1869, when the age was virtually dark; and that was the case, gentlemen would remember, just as if they all kept each decision of the court at their tongues' ends, in which the court held that no woman could be admitted, under the laws of Illinois, to practice as an attorney at law. But—

—and Vernon implored his colleagues to mark—long years afterward, the court of its own motion entered a nunc pro tunc order, reversing its own decision in the Bradwell case. Vernon dilated upon the importance of this decision; he extolled the court; it had set a white milestone to mark the progressing emancipation of the race. Then,

During the forty days, in which He appeared to the disciples only, at least ten times He spoke of the kingdom of God and commanded them to wait till they should have received the Spirit, that they might by His power go forth and bear witness unto Him in all the world.

LESSON II.—The descent of the Holy Spirit, Acts II, 1-21. Golden Text, John xiv, 16, 17, "I will pray the Father, and He will give you another comforter, that He may abide with you forever, even the Spirit of Truth." According to the type in Lev. xxiii, just fifty days after the resurrection of Christ the new fruits began to be gathered, the human instrument being Peter, but the power the Holy Spirit, who came as predicted by Joel, but also promised by Jesus Christ Himself.

LESSON III.—The beginnings of the Christian church, Acts II, 22-47. Golden Text, Acts II, 42, "They continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship and in breaking of bread and in prayers." By the Spirit of God, through the word of God, Simon Peter so preached Jesus Christ crucified and risen again as Israel's Messiah, the Son of David, that 3,000 received Him as their Saviour and Lord, put all their possessions into a common fund.

LESSON IV.—The lame man healed, Acts III, 1-6. Golden Text, Acts III, 16, "His name through faith in His name hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know." The risen and ascended Christ wrought through Peter and John in the healing of the man who had been lame from his birth, and this striking object lesson gave Peter another opportunity to proclaim Jesus Christ crucified and risen again, as the one whom Moses and all the prophets had foretold as the seed of Abraham.

LESSON V.—The trial of Peter and John, Acts IV, 1-31. Golden Text, Acts IV, 31, "They were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spake the word of God with boldness." Ever since sin entered the world mankind, as a whole, have been against God and on the side of the devil, and religion, so called, has been more largely on the line of Cain than of Abel, the god of this world taking the place of the living and true God.

LESSON VI.—True and false brotherhood, Acts IV, 32, to V, 11. Golden Text, Prov. xii, 22, "Lying lips are abomination to the Lord, but they that deal truly are His delight." With one heart and soul the believers lived together in the bonds of a risen Christ, counting nothing as specially their own if only He might be magnified. But the great deceiver, the father of lies, could not stand such powerful testimony to the truth and got in some of his work to the loss and everlasting disgrace of two names.

LESSON VII.—The apostles imprisoned, Acts V, 17-42. Golden Text, Matt. v, 10, "Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." Religion imprisoned the faithful followers of Christ and beat them and forbade them to speak the name of Jesus, but the Lord by an angel brought them out of prison and commanded them to speak to the people and strengthened them to testify again before the rulers.

LESSON VIII.—Stephen, the first Christian martyr, Acts VI, 1, to VII, 59. Golden Text, Acts vii, 59, "They stoned Stephen, calling upon God and saying, Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." Not only all kept each decision of the court at their tongues' ends, in which the court held that no woman could be admitted, under the laws of Illinois, to practice as an attorney at law. But—

—and Vernon implored his colleagues to mark—long years afterward, the court of its own motion entered a nunc pro tunc order, reversing its own decision in the Bradwell case. Vernon dilated upon the importance of this decision; he extolled the court; it had set a white milestone to mark the progressing emancipation of the race. Then,

LESSON IX.—Philip and the Ethiopian, Acts viii, 26-40. Golden Text, John v, 39, "Search the Scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of Me." Something is wrong in the body city when a man can go there and to the temple to worship and not learn of Him who is greater than the temple. Some one in heaven cares, even He who told them it was a den of thieves, and by an angel and by His Spirit gave light by Philip to the eunuch.

LESSON XI.—Aeneas and Dorcas, Acts ix, 31-43. Golden Text, Acts ix, 34, "And Peter said unto him, Aeneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole; arise and make thy bed." And he arose immediately. We are on earth to make it manifest that Jesus Christ, who healed the sick and raised the dead, is still the very same Jesus, giving life to dead souls and causing helpless men and women to walk in newness of life.

WILL CUT OUT USELESS TALK

Representatives Want Time to Amend Tariff Bill.

EACH HAS AX TO GRIND

Cut in Duties on Lumber Will Be Principal Point of Attack — Hides and Leather Goods Will Also Come In For Vigorous Discussion—Southerners Up In Arms Over Prospect of Free Trade With the Philippine Islands.

Washington, March 20.—There is a general disposition in the house to eliminate, as far as possible, any academic discussion of the tariff. Members of both sides are desirous of having as little general debate as possible and as much time as is practicable for the consideration of the bill under the five-minute rule for amendment.

When the Dingley bill was before congress less than a week was devoted in the house to the discussion of the bill under the five-minute rule, and while it is likely that a rule will be brought in to limit the time for considering amendments, it is believed that sufficient time will be allowed for the consideration of the whole bill under the five-minute rule.

Members on both sides are lining up and preparing to submit amendments to the sections of the bill in which their constituents are interested. The main contention is to be over the cut made in the duty on lumber. It is understood that the southern representatives are almost unanimously in favor of retaining the present duty of $2 per 1,000 feet.

They will have the support of many members from the northwest and Pacific coast states.

Hides and leather manufactures also will be the subject of considerable debate. An earnest effort will be made by the Democrats to have shoes and other leather products reduced at least 5 or 10 per cent and to have hides retained on the free list. On boots and shoes, according to the new tariff, will be levied a duty of 15 per cent ad valorem. While this is a reduction of 10 per cent ad valorem, it is contended by those who favor further reduction that the shoe men themselves have admitted they could stand a reduction of 5 or 10 per cent more if hides were admitted free.

The Louisiana delegation met to consider the effect the free trade provision for the Philippine Islands would have on the rice industry in the United States. They will endeavor to have the minority report of the ways and means committee favor a small duty on rice imported from the Philippines or the quantity entitled to free entry restricted, as has been done with sugar and tobacco.

In explanation of the retention of the countervailing duty clause on petroleum it is claimed that Mexico has developed large oil fields and that the provision limiting the free entry of oil to countries which do not impose a tax on the importation of American oil was made to prevent the importation of Mexican oil free of duty if that country should impose a tax on oil from the United States.

There has been very little criticism in the house of the metal schedule, but it is claimed that duty on wrought and cast scrap iron should be equal to the duty on pig iron, as is provided in the Dingley law. In the Payne bill scrap iron is covered by a duty of 50 cents per ton, while the duty on pig iron is $2.50 per ton. In speaking of this schedule a member of the house declared that its effect would be to reduce the importation of pig iron to practically nothing, while all the scrap iron that could be secured in foreign countries would be brought into this country.

SESSION MONOTONOUS

Representatives Bored by Reading of Payne Tariff Bill.

Washington, March 20.—For four and a half hours the house of representatives listened to the reading of the tariff bill, which was concluded. It was the only business transacted. It was perhaps the dreariest legislative session of any held by that body in recent years. Some of the members early in the reading took to the cloak rooms and lobby back of the speaker's desk, while others left the building for the day.

Mr. Sims of Tennessee injected a breath of life into the proceedings. He wanted the reading of the bill dispensed with as a farce, but objection was made. Then he asked unanimous consent that the bill be put on its passage, saying it was evident no opportunity would be afforded to amend the measure in the house. To this suggestion, however, Mr. Mann of Illinois objected.

Collar Manufacturers Protest.
Troy, N. Y., March 20.—The tariff committee of the Shirt and Collar Manufacturers' association issued a statement regarding the proposed tariff as affecting the collar industry. It is stated that the adoption of the proposed schedule on collars and cuffs would upset conditions and render Troy collar manufacturers unable to meet the competition (that such a reduction would bring about).

Harris to Lead Fight.
Columbus, O., March 20.—Former Governor Harris is to join those who propose to make a vigorous fight before congress against the reduction of the tariff on hides. He will lead in the contest, if necessary. Probably he will go to Washington and appear before the house committee on ways and means.

To Tax Weapons.
Washington, March 20.—A novel way of raising revenue was proposed in the house by Representative Sisson of Mississippi. It is provided in a bill he introduced that a tax of $2 be levied on every deadly weapon, such as pistols, dirk knives and brass knuckles, manufactured and sold within the United States.

HOW TO QUIT DRINKING

Washington Physician Recommends Vegetable Diet For Inebriates.

Washington, March 20.—"If you have a strong appetite for king alcohol and tobacco and want to be cured of the habit, just eat a vegetable diet for six months."

This was the advice given by Dr. D. H. Kress of this city in an address entitled, "Dyspepsia and Its Relations to Inebriety," before the American society for the study of alcohol and other drug narcotics. He discussed the evil effects of an excessive diet and declared that overeating leads to drunkenness. "If you would not become a drunkard," said Dr. Kress, "then quit eating meat."

LEWIS TO ATTEND SCRANTON MEETING

Miners' President Says Definite Policy Will Be Outlined.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 20.—President Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America has ordered the national executive board to convene in Indianapolis on next Thursday. A convention of the anthracite miners is to be held in Scranton, Pa., on Tuesday next, and it is expected that the executive board will discuss the anthracite troubles.

Mr. Lewis said that statements had been made in some of the eastern newspapers that he probably would not attend the Scranton convention. "On the contrary," he said, "I shall be there, and shall also be back in Indianapolis in time to meet with the executive board on Thursday."

Mr. Lewis said: "The tri-district convention of the anthracite United Mine Workers of America to be held at Scranton next Tuesday will be the most important convention held in that section of the country in the last three years. The convention will adopt a policy to govern the anthracite mining region after April 1."

"The anthracite operators are mistaken when they say that the bituminous miners dominate the anthracite men, since the anthracite workers, and they alone, will be represented in the Scranton convention. We expect intelligently to meet any issue and fix the responsibility on the operators for any failure to reach an agreement governing wage conditions in the anthracite mining country."

Cincinnati Pug Knocked Out.
Savannah, March 20.—Stanley Powell of Philadelphia disposed of Tommy McNamera of Cincinnati in the third round of their scheduled ten-round bout here, by a neat right to the jaw.

ROBBED ON STREETS

Columbus, O., Woman Loses Valuable Gems at Martinsburg, W. Va.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 20.—Mrs. E. C. Bright of Columbus, O., who is on a visit to relatives here, was robbed on the streets of jewels valued at more than $100.

CALL MADE ON STATE BANKS

Secretary of State Bruner, Wants to Know Their Condition on March 31st.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 20.—In calling upon State banks and trust companies for reports of their condition at the close of business on March 31st, Secretary of State, Ben L. Bruner has notified every one of the over four hundred of such institutions in the State that he will in the future hold them to a strict compliance to the letter of the law governing the conduct of their institutions and in the matter of making their reports.

Secretary Bruner says that he wishes the banks and trust companies which do business under charter from the State to know that he intends rigidly to enforce in the future Sections 594 and 596, both of which have been permitted to be something of a dead letter in the past. This means that those banking institutions which do not have their reports in the Secretary's office within five days after they are called for, will be subjected to a fine of $200 as Section 596 specifies.

"I intend that a man's money shall be just as safe in a State bank or trust company as it is in a national bank," said Mr. Bruner. "It was the non-compliance of the officials of the recently wrecked banks in Owensboro and the Western part of the State with these sections which caused the loss of so much money to their depositors," said Dr. Bruner. The Secretary was one of the principal witnesses in some of the Owensboro cases and he was much impressed with the causes of the trouble there.

"It may be that I will call for the condition of the banks on some past date, as for instance, that on the 2nd of May, say I called for the condition of State banks and trust companies. This would give the institutions until the 7th of May to get their reports into me, and being a back date, would compel them to keep their books up at all times for examination, an end enable them to make ready in advance for a report."

"I believe that by forcing strict compliance with the letter of Sections 594, 596 and 612 this can be effected."

Winchester Banks.

The banks of Winchester do not come under the criticism of Dr. Bruner. Both the Winchester Bank and the Peoples State Bank have always sent in their report immediately when called for.

KENTUCKY WESLEYAN LECTURE RECITAL

Will Be Given Under Auspices of Ladies of Methodist Church
On April 6.

The ladies of the M. E. Church will present for the first time to a Winchester audience the Kentucky Wesleyan Lecture-Recital Male Quartet Company at the court house, Tuesday evening, April 6th. This will be one of the few remaining times that the people will have of hearing Prof. Taylor if he leaves the city for good. A crowded house should greet him, not only for what he is and has been to Winchester, but also for what he can do as a lecturer.

This combination is receiving very favorable mention from the different places where it has appeared. Already it is receiving calls for more engagements than can be filled.

The entertainment consists of a lecture by Prof. Taylor, readings by Prof. Dalgety, and selections by the male quartet. This quartet is composed of Leland Haines, Glover Williams, Walter Larrimer, and A. I. Rosser. It is doing splendid work.

The proceeds of the lecture-recital will be devoted to charitable purposes by the Methodist ladies. It will be a good entertainment, given in a good cause and given by good people. Come and show your appreciation of the cause, the people and the occasion.
